

Course Scheduling Considerations Corporate Law Concentration

Summary of Corporate Law Concentration Requirements

1. Complete Core Courses: Business Associations; Securities Regulation; Mergers & Acquisitions; Business Planning and either (A) Legal Research for the Transactional Lawyer or (B) an alternative research assignment provided by the Concentration Faculty Adviser (email the Adviser for more information).
2. Complete Four Units of Advanced Electives: Visit here (www.lls.edu > Academics > Concentrations > Corporate Law > Concentration Requirements) for approved electives.

Some Guiding Principles to Keep in Mind

- Taking Business Associations is the first step to completing the concentration. Business Associations is the prerequisite for both Mergers & Acquisitions and Business Planning. Business Associations may be taken concurrently with Securities Regulation, but it is preferable to take Business Associations first.
- Historically, the “core” courses for the concentration are available in Fall and Spring semesters. However, be sure to check the annual course offering schedule to confirm.
- Although in theory you could take Mergers & Acquisitions, Securities Regulation and Business Planning together in one semester, it is not recommended. Taking two out of three of these courses together in a semester is considered manageable. Business Planning does not have a final exam but does entail three time-intensive graded assignments during the semester.
- In choosing among the long list of advanced electives, you may wish to consider deepening your knowledge of a particular area or using this as an opportunity to dabble in a new area. Many of the approved offerings offer greater focus on areas such as intellectual property, entertainment/media law, real estate transactions, corporate governance and securities transactions.
- The Transactional Negotiation Team is not required for the concentration. However, if you want to participate in the Team, you do need to complete Business Planning in advance. Because the Team is offered in Spring semester only, only 3Ls are eligible to participate. Many students find it helpful to also take Mergers & Acquisitions prior to TNT.
- To enroll in the concentration, you need to register here (visit the Corporate Law Concentration page and go to “Registration Information”). This ensures we know you are working towards the concentration and, when the time comes, we can certify your completion of the concentration. If you register and later decide not to complete the concentration, there is no harm or impact to your transcript.

Sample Scheduling Grids

Included on the next page are sample course scheduling grids for students seeking to complete the Corporate Law Concentration. These are samples only and do not represent the only paths for completing the concentration.

Each student is responsible for ensuring the concentration requirements are satisfied in a timely manner. Visit the “Concentration Requirements” page under Corporate Law concentration for the full list of requirements, including approved electives.
