WHY SHOULD I CARE ABOUT GETTING OUT THE VOTE?

- Our legal right to vote as Asians living as American citizens is only 68 years old, a liberty gained after the Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952.
- Asian Americans and Pacific Islanders are the deciding votes in close elections. We're 5% or more of the voting-eligible population in nine states, 79 counties and 102 congressional districts. And in battleground states like Virginia, Nevada, North Carolina, and Georgia, we have the numbers to decide an election.
- Since 2000, there has been a growth of over 620,000 new AAPI voters nationwide for each presidential cycle. Yet, only 56% of AAPIs are registered to vote compared with 72% of whites. And in 2016, only 49% of eligible AAPIs turned out to vote compared to more than 64% of whites.
