“We’ve navigated the work force, worked in a few different arenas, started families, and made the difficult choice to go to law school. We are in law school because we want to be here. I think because of that, the rhetoric in the classroom is so much more rich and diverse.”

— Josie Lopez '19

WHO WE ARE

A HYBRID SCHEDULE

A top-notch legal education should not be for one kind of student. At LMU Loyola Law School (LLS) we have made it our mission to ensure our nationally renowned Hybrid JD Evening Program is accessible for even the busiest of lives. No compromise.

The Schedule

- First-year courses offered in hybrid format: regular on-campus requirement of one night a week (typically Mondays) with one night of virtual instruction during most of the school year.
- Most evening classes run from 6–10 p.m.*
- 4 years to complete, including two summer sessions.
- You can work full-time (many evening students still log 30–40 hours at their day jobs.)

STILL THE BEST OF THE BEST

As a Hybrid JD Evening student, you’ll be taught by the same elite faculty, connected to the same outstanding alumni network, and part of the same LLS family.

Elite Faculty

Required courses in the Hybrid JD Evening Program are typically taught by full-time law school faculty. And that’s saying something, as our professors are drawn from among the finest attorneys and academics in the nation. Evening electives are often taught by members of the federal and state judiciary and some of the most prominent local experts in their specialties.

THE ACADEMICS

After the two years of required courses, students in the program may retain the hybrid schedule, select classes in the day or evening outside of that schedule, or create a schedule that includes both hybrid and traditional classes.
