“DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS” ROBERT C. BAKER HIGHLIGHTS 1999 ALUMNI DINNER FEB 18

Loyola Law School will honor three very diverse, yet equally impressive, members of the Law School community at this year’s Annual Alumni Dinner scheduled for February 18, 1999, at the Petersen Automotive Museum. Robert C. Baker ’71, truly a “gentleman lawyer”, has been selected to receive the 1999 Distinguished Alumnus Award; Henry C. Yuen ’80, the dynamic and innovative CEO of Gemstar International Group, will accept Loyola’s Corporate Excellence Award; and the Law School will bid a fond farewell to a great friend, The Reverend Thomas P. O’Malley, S.J., who is stepping down as President of Loyola Marymount University.

The Alumni Association Board of Governors will present their Recognition Awards to five distinguished members of the Loyola Law School community at a private reception preceding the Dinner; they will also be introduced during the Dinner program. Those honored by the Board this year include Robert W. Murray, Jr. ’91, Mark J. Spaulding ’86, Maria C. Vargas-Rodriguez ’73, Grace K. Tevis, and Maria D. Villa ’86. These individuals are recognized by the Board for the positive impact they have made in either their professional or private lives on their own community, the community at large, the legal profession or the Law School.

LOYOLA ADOPTION DAY — PRO BONO OPPORTUNITY FOR ALUMS & STUDENTS

Here’s one of those “feel good, everybody wins” situations ... The Loyola Women’s Roundtable (and FIRM) under the direction of the Law School’s Pro Bono Office and Public Counsel, will sponsor a Loyola Adoption Day on Saturday, January 30, 1999, on the Law School campus. You don’t have to know anything about adoption, you just have to want (or need) to give some time to pro bono work - as much as you want, or as little as two hours. And, this is not a “for women only” event, it is open to all Loyola alumni and students.

Adoption Day will begin with registration and check-in at 9:00 a.m., followed by a training session for students and alumni, for which attorneys may receive MCLE credit.* Lunch will follow, then a 2-hour session during which cases will be assigned. Alumni who are not taking on a case themselves will be

WOMEN’S ROUNDTABLE SPONSORS SPA DAY AND “KICK ASS CHARM SCHOOL” IN MARCH

“Kick Ass Charm School – Make Over Inside and Out,” an entertaining and informative presentation by alumna Kimberly Smith ’84 and her colleague, Katherine James, a jury consultant, highlights the Loyola Women’s Roundtable fundraiser on Sunday, March 7, 1999. Full spa services will be available before, after and between class sessions, and snacks and lunch will be provided.

The course, approved for two hours MCLE credit, offers valuable insights into how to present oneself, both verbally and physically, to get a message across. Tips on delivery, taking charge, reading verbal and non-verbal cues will be presented, as well as advice on how to create the impression of you that you want. This is a “for women only” event, but is not limited to Loyola alumnae. Participation is being solicited from a broad base of professional women who will benefit from both the education and the relaxation of the spa. Alumnae are encouraged to invite friends and colleagues to enjoy this unusual opportunity to learn and relax together.

Cost for each person will be determined by the spa services selected. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Alumni Relations Office 213.736.1029. Proceeds benefit Women’s Roundtable programs and scholarship fund which provides dependent care scholarships for students with the added expense of such care while attending law school.

BYOBS PLANNED FOR SPRING

Loyola’s own brand of BYOB events, Bring Your Own Business Card Networking Receptions, are being planned for spring. These events bring together Loyola alumni in various geographic areas to get reacquainted with former classmates, to bond with the Law School, and, most importantly, to help individuals build a strong network of Loyola alumni on whom they can call and to whom they can refer business.

All those attending bring a number of business cards, which are assembled so each person receives a packet of cards as they leave. The events are planned as an after office hours drop-in, generally from 6 to 8 p.m., with hors d’oeuvres and a no-host bar. They are held at law firms, residences or a local hotel or restaurant. A nominal contribution is usually requested to help off-set expenses. Invitations are sent to all alumni in a particular geographic area, and we list all up-coming BYOBs in the Alumni Newsletter as soon as we have definite dates and locations.

Plans are underway to hold BYOBS in the West San Fernando Valley, the San Gabriel Valley, West Los Angeles, Orange County and San Diego.

Please contact the Alumni Relations Office if you or your firm is interested in co-sponsoring a BYOB, or if you would like us to notify you when an event is scheduled in your area, or an area of particular interest to you.

SILBERFELD NAMED LOYOLA “TRIAL LAWYER OF THE YEAR”

Roman M. Silberfeld, managing partner of the Los Angeles office of Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi, will receive the Law School’s 1999 “Trial Lawyer of the Year” award at a dinner preceding the final rounds of the Scott Moot Court Honors Board Competition. The event will take place on Wednesday, April 14, 1999, beginning at 5:00 pm on the Law School campus.

The Final Round will be judged by three distinguished federal judges, The Honorable Terrence T. Evans, U.S. Court of Appeals, Seventh Judicial Circuit (Milwaukee, WI), The Honorable David Trager, U.S. District Court, Eastern District of New York (Brooklyn, NY), and The Honorable Kim M. Wardlaw, U.S. Court of Appeals, Ninth Judicial Circuit (Los Angeles, CA). This Round is the culmination of several days of elimination rounds.

Silberfeld was selected this year in recognition of the totality of his career, during which he has earned “the respect, affection and admiration of even opposing counsel” according to Craig deRecat, vice president of the Alumni Association Board of Governors. “Roman is always a gentleman, the embodiment of the finest traditions of our profession.” Silberfeld was part of the team of lawyers from his national firm that successfully represented the State of Minnesota and Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Minnesota in a lawsuit against the tobacco industry. The May 1998 settlement of that case provided not only financial compensation to the plaintiffs but also resulted in four permanent injunctions against tobacco industry efforts to market their products to children.

All alumni are invited to attend the Dinner and Final Rounds. You may contact Alumni Relations office to request an invitation, which will be mailed the first week in March. Interested individuals may call 213.736.1029, or e-mail Nora.Romero@lls.edu.

Robert Baker was selected for this highest honor of the Alumni Association in recognition of his service to the Law School and the regard in which he is held in the legal community. Baker is considered a particularly strong role model for Loyola students. "You can't find a better lawyer anywhere. He's smart, articulate and a real gentleman," according to Dean Gerald T. McLaughlin.

The Petersen Automotive Museum was chosen as the venue to lend a new look and feel to the Dinner, and plans are for a high tech presentation, with large screens offering live feed of the program so everyone has an unobstructed view. The Museum itself adds a new dimension to the Dinner — the exhibits will be open to Dinner guests during the reception hour from 6:00 to 7:00 pm. A Program Book, which will carry greetings from Law School supporters, and friends and colleagues of the evening’s honorees, was also introduced this year. The Book gives voice to those who wish to express their support and may not be able to attend, as well as to those who attend and would like to demonstrate their support in a more observable manner. Also new this year, the Alumni Office has reserved some tables in the center of the room for those attending by themselves. "In the past, many people have felt isolated when they attended the dinner alone, not being with a sponsoring firm. By assigning tables for these people in the center, we hope to make them feel more included and as important as they are to us" states Karen Parks, Director of Alumni Relations.

The Law School invites sponsorship of the Alumni Dinner as a means to underwrite some of the expense and provide additional scholarship funds to law students. Sponsors of the 1999 Dinner (as of the press date of this publication) include: Law Offices of Oscar A. Acosta; Alumni Association Board of Governors; American Building Maintenance; Arnett Electric; Barton Protective Services Inc.; Baker, Silberberg & Keener; Bank of America; Berger, Kahn, Shafton, Moss, Figler, Simon & Gladstone; Buchalter, Nemer, Fields & Younger; Burke, Williams & Sorensen; Christie, Parker & Hale; Daniels, Barett & Fine; Epstein Becker & Green; Family & Friends of Robert C. Baker; Michael J. Fourticq-Hancock Park Associates; Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher; Girardi & Keese; Grant Parking Inc.; Haight, Brown & Bonesteel; Heller Ehrman White & McAuliffe; Homburg Jaguar Inc.; JCM Facilities Planning & Management; Jones, Day, Reavis & Pogue; KPMG Peat Marwick; Law Office of Thomas B. Kristovich; Manatt, Phelps & Phillips; Donna D. Melby, Esq.; MGM Grand; O’Melveny & Myers; Paxton Automotive Corp.; Peck Jones Construction; Robins, Kaplan, Miller & Ciresi; Edward P. Roski, Jr. & Majestic Realty Co.; Simke Chodos; Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom; Sullivan, Workman & Dee; Talcott, Lightfoot, Van de Velde & Sadowsky; and Geoffrey L. Taylor & Associates.

Sponsorship, Program Book pages, and tickets for the Alumni Dinner are available through the Alumni Relations Office. Please call Nora Romero at 213.736.1029 for further information or to make reservations.

PUBLIC INTEREST FELLOWSHIPS AVAILABLE TO RECENT ALUMNS

Recent graduates who have a demonstrated commitment to public interest law are encouraged to apply for a one-year post graduate fellowship now available from the Law School. 1998 and 1999 graduates are eligible for 1999-2000 Fellowships.

Anyone wandering around the second floor of the Burns Building at the Law School in the last few weeks may have noticed that the Pro Bono office seemed to be missing, and something called the Public Interest Law Department appeared to have taken its place. Those who work in this mysterious new office are extremely proud of this change, for it reflects Loyola Law School’s growing commitment to public interest law.

Since last June, under the leadership of Sande Buhai, the Public Interest Department Faculty Director, the Department has set about the task of taking all of the various public interest related projects that had been scattered among different departments and putting them in one centralized office, hoping to make access to the wide range of information and resources more easily available to students and alumni.

At the center of all of this effort is the mandatory forty-hour Pro Bono requirement, which contributes well over 15,000 hours of student legal services each year to non-profit organizations throughout the community. Other programs include: scholarships, grants for summer public interest jobs, grants for loan repayment assistance to graduates working in public interest, and post-graduate fellowships. The 1998-99 Fellowships were awarded to Jed Minoff ’98, now working at Public Counsel, for his dedication to the legal representation of homeless and at-risk youth, and Denise Baez ’98, now employed at the Catholic Legal Immigration Network, for her commitment to the representation and advocacy of children and women in detention facilities.

Contact Todd Lawrence at 213.736.1059 for further information and applications for the Post-Graduate Fellowships. The deadline to apply is March 1, 1999.

Dear Loyola Law School Alumni:

The Western Law Center for Disability Rights provides great on-campus externships for up to 30 Loyola Law School students each semester. And, at the same time, we provide needed legal services for people with disabilities whose civil rights have been violated. But we really need your help!

We have three great programs that need volunteer attorneys:

- The Civil Rights Litigation Project represents people with disabilities in actions to enforce their rights under the state and federal civil rights laws;
- The Disability Mediation Center (DMC) provides expert mediation and conciliation services to resolve disability-related disputes without litigation; and
- The Cancer Legal Resource Center (CLRC) provides legal information, resources, and referrals to people battling cancer.

These programs provide real-world legal experience to students at Loyola Law School and provide meaningful assistance to people who desperately need it. But the Western Law Center has a very small staff. We rely on pro bono co-counsel and volunteer mediators to assist with much of the Center's work. Through these cooperative efforts, the Western Law Center can take on more cases, and give both students and volunteers a meaningful experience.

The Litigation Program needs litigators to assist with disability discrimination cases. The DMC needs volunteer mediators with disability experience to assist the DMC's staff mediators. The CLRC Volunteer Attorneys Network needs attorneys with experience in insurance law, employment, government benefits, Medicare/ Medical, and estate planning.

I hope you will consider volunteering your time and talent to one of the Center's programs. It is a wonderful opportunity to get to know the new Loyola Law School students and to help them develop their talents as future attorneys. Together, Loyola Law School, the Western Law Center, and you can provide an education that truly prepares students to excel in the practice of law. At the same time, you will help a person whose rights are being violated, learn about the field of disability law, and even enjoy yourself!
